Morbus Osler, Germany

Selbsthilfe e.V. The German organisation for HHT, Morbus Osler Selbsthilfe e. V., is a patient-driven alliance of affected individuals with the support of medical fraternity, in the field of HHT.

Morbus Osler's mission is to build a strong community of patients, which are able to help other people living with HHT, to be their voice at the German level, and – directly or indirectly – to fight against the impact of HHT on their lives.

To this end, Morbus Osler Selbsthilfe e.V. undertakes activities on behalf of its members, notably in favour of:

- Empowering HHT patient groups
- Advocating HHT as a public health issue
- Raising public HHT awareness, and also that of national and international HHT institutions
- Improving access to information, treatment, care, and support for people living with HHT
- Encouraging good practices in relation to these
- Promoting scientific and clinical HHT research
- Developing HHT treatments and orphan drugs
- Improving quality of life through patient support, social, welfare and educational services
